

Pre-Event Survey - NI Forum - Cannabinoids in Veterinary Medicine

Results Exported on July 12, 2018

EVENT SURVEY

EVENT CVMA Convention 2018

EVENT DATE July 05, 2018

Report Summary

Identified Attendees	Survey Responses	Completed Surveys
561	61	49

10.87%
Response Rate

61 of 561 identified attendees responded to the survey

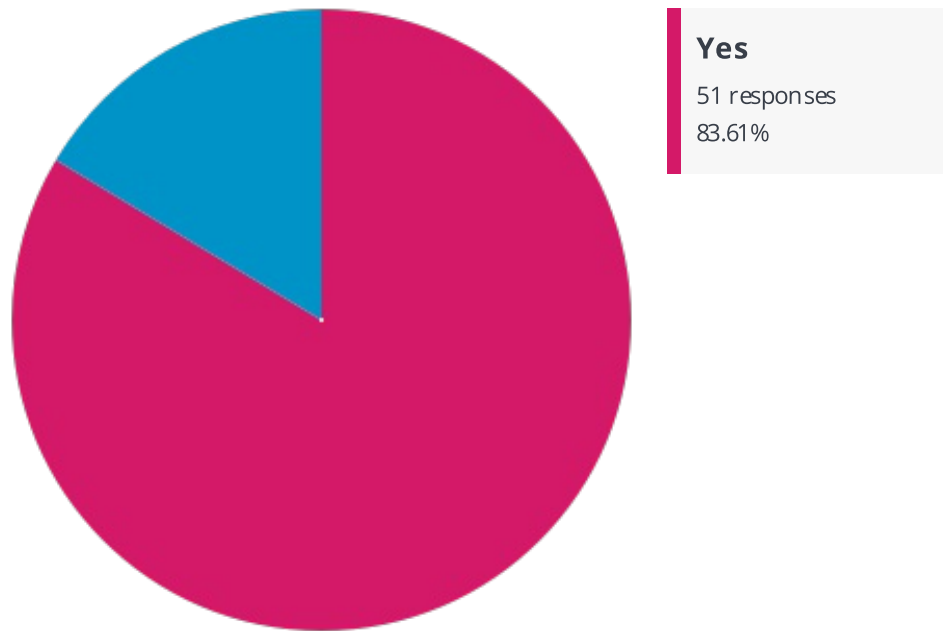

80.33%
Completion Rate

49 of 61 respondents completed the survey

Q. Do you feel that under Canada's current medical cannabis regulations (ACMPR) veterinarians should have equal rights to prescribe medical cannabis and/or CBD as compared to human physicians and nurse practitioners, if/when we feel it could benefit a patient?

Top Response Options

Answer Options	Responses	Percentage
Yes	51	83.61%
No	10	16.39%
Total	61	100.00%

Q. If it was legally possible for veterinarians to prescribe cannabinoids, which of the following would hamper your decision to do so?

Top Response Options

Answer Options	Responses	Percentage
The paucity of published studies	27	55.10%
The lack of certificate of analysis for most products	14	28.57%
I would not hesitate and would prescribe it	4	8.16%
The stigma about pot and marijuana	3	6.12%
The fear of side effects	1	2.04%
Total	49	100.00%

Q. Regarding therapeutic THC and companion animals, do you think:

Top Response Options

Answer Options	Responses	Percentage
More studies are needed to establish dosage, efficacy, ratios, etc.	43	87.76%
There is no good medical use for It in pets	3	6.12%
It can be used in pets, but only combined with CBD	2	4.08%
It can only be used at extremely low dosage	1	2.04%
It can be used in pets without any problem.	0	0.00%
Total	49	100.00%